LIVING HISTORY

Students dabble into the past

Emmons School fourth-graders got a chance to learn something about their relatives and play dress-up at the same time. Students researched ancestors who had immigrated to the United States and then got to play the parts of those relatives.

Give your two cents

D-34 to host public forum

By HELEN MANSFIELD
wjnews@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH – Scott Thompson, superintendent of Antioch School District 34, said the school district is not planning to put a referendum on the ballot any time soon, but they are inviting parents and members of the public to give their two cents.

The district created Navigate 34, a series of public forums to get input, and the first meeting was planned for Dec. 13.

But Mother Nature had other plans, and because school was canceled for the day due to weather, so was the meeting.

"This is a community-engagement process, to get information for the future of the school district," Thompson said.

The Navigate 34 committee is made up of 14 community members, district employees and school board members.

Thompson said the district has asked twice before for residential dollars, through two failed referendums.

During April's mid-term elections, Antioch voters rejected a $46.9 million tax-increase, which would have funded construction of a new elementary and middle school.

The growing district faces space issues, and as for a referendum, "we're going to need it some time," he said.

But, Thompson adds, a referendum is only one component of a bigger discussion.

Other items on the table will include recommendations on facilities and its uses, staffing, finances, and curriculum.

Thompson and other members of the board would like to see parents and members of the community join in the discussion.

Navigate 34's next meeting is scheduled from 7 to 9 p.m. on Jan. 8, at Antioch Upper Grade School.

Got something to say

The Jan. 8 meeting will be from 7 to 9 p.m. at Antioch Upper Grade School, 800 Highview Drive in Antioch.

Sessions also are set for Jan. 22, Feb. 19, March 18, April 22, May 20 and June 17.

2007 a year of change at the Journals

As 2007 comes to an end, I can't help but reflect on all the changes we have gone through at the Lake County Journals.

First and foremost – the look of the paper has changed drastically. In 2006, we moved to a tabloid format, which was changed earlier this year in favor of the broadsheet product that you now hold in your hands. But the changes to our format didn't stop there. Initially, we offered just one story and an accompanying photo on the front page. Now the front page features a story on the right, along with a photo on the left that promotes another article inside the paper.

We also ended one era and began a new one when we closed the doors on our old building at 30 S. Whitney St. in downtown Grayslake and moved to our new office on Route 45, between Washington Street and Gages Lake Road.

Many talented reporters and photographers have come and gone as well, and their contributions helped make this a year in which our publication won a multitude of awards – including the annual C.V. Amenoff Memorial Award for Weekly Newspaper Publishing Excellence at the Northern Illinois Newspaper Association conference this past fall.

We also moved from offering the Journals through paid subscriptions to a free distribution model, which has boosted our circulation to about 50,000 readers every week. That more than doubles the amount of people we were reaching last year at this time.

And it is the readers for whom we have made many of these – and other – changes throughout the year.

It is our goal to provide you with best product our resources will allow.

Have ideas on how we can do better? Let me know at mpera@nwnewsgroup.com.

Thanks for reading the Journals in print and online.

Cops, kids get into holiday spirit

Antioch Police Department hosts its fourth Shop with a Cop

By HELEN MANSFIELD
wjnews@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH — Customers and employees of Antioch's Orchard Court shopping center looked out into the cold and dark streets, trying to figure out what was going on over at the police station.

At 5 p.m. on Dec. 12, five squad cars pulled out, with lights and sirens going.

Among the group were Police Chief James Foerster, and another officer, driving a department van.

That night, the Antioch Police Department took roughly 50 children to Wal-Mart as part of its annual Shop with a Cop event.

Earlier, the children and their families were treated to a pizza party, games and they sang Christmas carols with officers and 911 dispatchers.

Resident Armella Francis, a distinguished woman with long salt-and-pepper hair, pulled her long black coat close to her.

She smiled, watching everyone enjoy themselves, but her eyes were twinged with sadness.

"This is quite a blessing at Christmas," she said.

Armella said she couldn't put her finger on just one thing that made it harder than usual to have Christmas for her sons Luke Rowe, 5, and Mark Roe, 8.

"All year, it's been getting harder and harder," Armella said. "When milk and eggs are going up and up, and gas is going up and up, a few dollars turn into hundreds."

Armella's boys can appreciate what the Police Department has provided for them.

Each child received $100 to spend at Wal-Mart.

"Luke said, 'I am so lucky,'" Armella said.

after their home in Elgin burned down, and Katrina said having a new home is bittersweet.

Keely is happy in her new school, and Katrina has found herself working after having been a stay-at-home mom for nine years.

"I think this is awesome," Katrina said of Shop with a Cop. "It's such a tight-knit community."

Get artsy in '08

January kicks off the new year with a gallery change of new exhibits in all the rooms of the Antioch Fine Arts Foundation.

The White Room, usually reserved for individual artists, will feature any member — as long as the artist's work that can fit into a 12-by-12-foot area; two-or-three dimensional works are accepted with unlimited subject matter.

The work will hang for the entire month of January.

Last year was an outstanding year with the Art Crawl, Art-on-the-Lawn, a wine tasting, and a silent auction. This year, the gallery hopes to include an Artist's Studio Tour.

Members will receive a monthly newsletter apprising them of opportunities to exhibit art, news about what's up with the gallery, and invitations to the monthly meeting, where new techniques and opportunities are shared amongst member artists.

The following are the art forms that will be shared: oil, watercolor, acrylic; glass, clay, metal or wood sculpture; jewelry; potters; photography; plus other art forms too numerous to mention.

Membership is open to all those interested.

Novice or veteran artists are welcomed.

The 2008 membership form can be picked up at the gallery at 983 Main St., Antioch, during regular gallery hours.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursday through Saturday; and noon to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Welcome to America

Ethnic Celebration helps students appreciate roots

By HELEN MANSFIELD
wjnews@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH – Some people call them kolachki, others kolacheys, but at Emmons School's Ethnic Celebration, most people called them "delicious."

Students in Aaron Cohn and Marianne Bojan's fourth-grade classes participated in the event, which has gone on for more than 10 years.

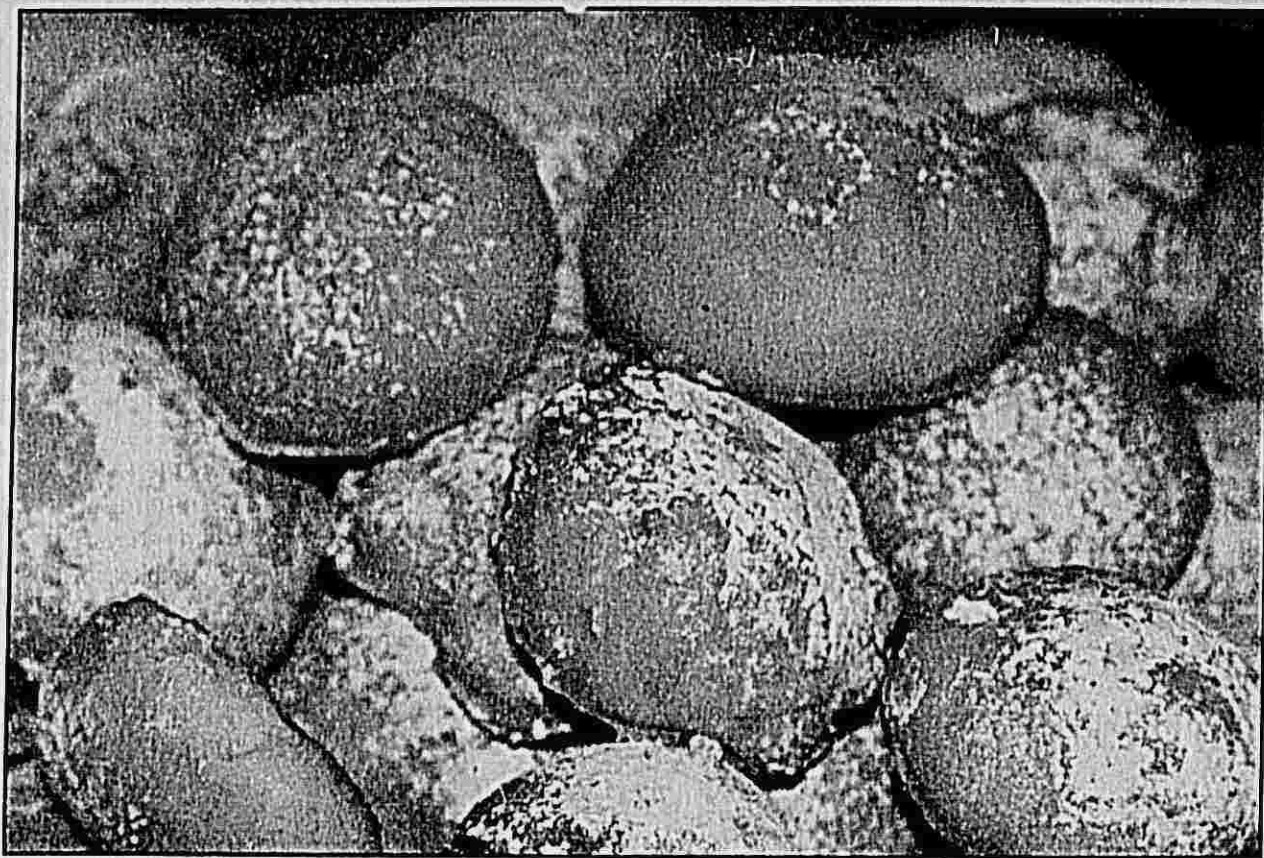

Students researched their own family histories, picked a member who immigrated, and put together that individual's tale.

Each student worked his or her way through the autobiography of a replica of Ellis Island. The port facility in New York was the way many immigrants made their way into the U.S. from the late 19th-century to the mid 20th-century.

Students had to submit their passports, and go through medical exams. Some students were "quarantined" because they were ill, other students spent time in the "detention center" if officials didn't think he or she looked like the person on their passport.

Once through the process, students passed under a sign reading "Welcome to America."

Hope Reband, 10, of Antioch, was dressed like a young peasant from Poland, complete with a babushka – a triangular piece of fabric, Italian lemon cookies were just one of the many treats available during Emmons School's Ethnic Celebration. Students in Aaron Cohn and Marianne Bojan's classes prepared projects on immigrant ancestors.

“It's cool to learn about where you're from.”

Hope Reband

Student at Emmons School

worn over her head.

Reband researched her great-grandmother, Agatha Lany, who came from Poland in 1905.

"It's cool to learn about where you're from," Reband said.

Most of the girls wore skirts; some of the young men wore suits, ties, and hats. Students also had to create a dish from their native country. The smorgasbord included perogies, several varieties of meatballs, Irish stew, German potato salad, and desserts galore.

The final part of the project included a flipbook journal, detailing a student's family history.

Rita Fischer, a history teacher at Grayslake Central High School, was glad her 10-year-old daughter Amanda participated in a project.

"Being a teacher, I can appreciate an experience like this," Fischer said. "Hopefully, it will instill a love of history."

A leap of faith

Woman receives award for book

By YADIRA SANCHEZ OLSON
ysanchez@nwnewsgroup.com

Check it out

LINDENHURST – Local author Tania Runyan never thought that the poems she began to write in graduate school 13 years ago would develop into a book.

And she definitely never expected her book "Delicious Air" to win the Book of the Year Award from the Conference on Christianity and Literature.

The California native who now resides in Lindenhurst with her husband, their two daughters and two cats says her love of writing began when she was very young.

"My baby sitter introduced me to writing when I was about seven," she said. "She would tell me to pick a picture of an animal and write a story about it."

But poetry came later in life for her.

As a teenager she wanted to be a screenwriter. One of her college professors told her that poetry was her calling.

"She said, 'You see yourself as a fiction writer, but I see you as a poet,'" Runyan recalled.

What: Presentation of Book of the Year Award to local poet Tania Runyan for her collection of poems called "Delicious Air"

Where: The Conference on Christianity and Literature luncheon will be at La Strada Ristorante at 155 N. Michigan Ave.

When: Noon, Dec. 29

Runyan's award will be presented at CCL's luncheon in Chicago on Dec. 29.

The ceremony will be in conjunction with the convention of the Modern Language. This award is presented every year to people who's work has contributed most to the dialogue between literature and Christian faith.

"I didn't set out to market [the book] as Christian but this means a lot to me," Runyan said.

Because when reading her work, Runyan said, she wants her readers to feel a sense of curiosity about themselves and about God.

Runyan will soon begin to market her next work, a collection of poems called "Precipice of Light."

Tree sales brisk inches, off Route 176. Hours are 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. weekends.

Last-minute Christmas tree buyers will not have to settle for a "Charlie Brown Christmas."

The St. Bede Knights of Columbus Christmas tree and wreath sales have begun at the church parking lot and at Val's Grocery in Fox Lake. The church is at Route 59 and Wilson Road.

"We will deliver ... for a donation," member John Miller said.

Miller said sales have been good for the Knights, but with just a few days left there still is a good selection of tall trees. Weekday hours are 6 to 8 p.m., 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekends.

"People say good things about our prices and send family members over," Gene Wrobel said.

Also, there are many Christmas tree sales locally for those who put the buying off to the final days.

Gagewood Lions Club

For more than four decades, Gagewood Lions Club members have sold Christmas trees and wreaths, for most years at Routes 120 and 45.

"Usually, Saturday and Sunday are our biggest days," member Jim O'Keefe said. "It is helping out, and you come in and meet people. The kids from the baseball program come in and volunteer, and students from Carmel, too."

Lloyd Kalepp has been the club's tree supplier for years. He makes two trips a season to Grayslake from Hayward, Wis., to deliver trees.

Ice is more of a hindrance to the trees than snow, workers said on a Saturday afternoon.

Hours at the Gagewood Lions Club tree sales are from noon to 9 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. weekends. Fraser and balsam trees are for sale, as well as two sizes of wreaths.

Rosko's

An area tradition is Rosko's Great Christmas Trees, with locations in Fox Lake off Route 12, Gurnee, Lindenhurst, Libertyville, at Lamb's Farm off Route 176 and Crystal Lake. "We have Concolor fir, which is new," said Lynette Karr, of Spring Grove. "It is made out of a different type of needle, that retains better. We have trees from two to 20 feet, from $9.95 to $150."

She recommends always keeping water on the stump, or you have to cut a new one. She staffs the Fox Lake spot at Watts Marina with Laurie Gustafson of Fox Lake.

Staff at most spots said they plan on being open until Dec. 23 or 24.

Richardson Farm

Overall sales of Christmas trees are off to a good start at Richardson Farms. Some 50,000 trees are there to choose from, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. until Dec. 23.

But every year, someone stops by looking for a tree on Dec. 24.

The farm on Richardson Road also has fresh, handmade decorated wreaths and garland and goodies such as doughnuts.

There is always hot chocolate or coffee, free shaking and bailing of trees, large heated barn, indoor restrooms and hand saws are provided.

Weekend fun includes free wagon rides out to the trees, fresh made doughnuts and hot chocolate and concessions.

Types of trees include Douglas fir, scotch pine, white pine, Fraser fir, blue spruce, Concolor fir.

For information, call Richardson Tree Farm at 815-675-9729. The farm is at 9407 Richardson Road.

Boys Scouts

Also, Wauconda based Boy Scout Troop 190 is selling Christmas trees at Messiah Lutheran Church.

Elsewhere, Island Lake Lions Club members are selling wreaths, from 24 to 60

School hosts Donuts with Dad

By HELEN MANSFIELD
wjnews@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH – Spending quality time with dad is an opportunity that most students at W.C. Petty Elementary School in Antioch couldn't pass up.

And last week, they got their chance. The school's PTO offered its annual Donuts with Dad event during the early hours of Dec. 12, 13, and 14; but, it was so much more than doughnuts, participants said.

Dad Frank Moser and his fifth-grade son Johnathan showed up for the event nearly an hour early, but Dan said he was pleased with the spread.

Not only were there several varieties of doughnuts – both traditional and "holes," – but there were bagels, fresh fruit, juice, and cereals.

But dads weren't the only ones at the event. Uncles, grandpas, and a mom or two came as well.

Willow Azooz's husband was sick, so she came with her 7-year-old daughter Kalissa.

Lynn Berliner, of Gurnee, filled in for his son who had to work, so he came to school with granddaughter Haley, age 8.

"It's a shame my son missed this because it's terrific," Lynn said. "The menu will certainly appeal to everyone."

Haley said she was sad her dad couldn't come, but having her granddad was good, too.

Jodi Unekis, a PTO volunteer, said the three-day event was a success.

"We ended up with at least 100 more than we expected," Jodi said. "Muffins With Mom" isn't quite as big of a deal.

"Muffins With Mom" will take place May 14, 15, and 16.

Lauren Hugener, 8, and her father, Steve, both of Antioch, enjoy the spread put out at W.C. Petty Elementary School. Dec. 14 was the last day of the Donuts with Dad event.

Live nativity scene goes on despite cold, snowy weather

By STEVE PETERSON
speterson@nwnewsgroup.com

WAUCONDA – A snowstorm did not stop dozens of Messiah Evangelical Lutheran Church members from adding to the importance of the Christmas season.

Dozens came Dec. 15 to watch and participate in a live Nativity scene, complete with live animals. This was the church's first such effort.

"It takes us back in time and reminds us for the reason for the season," said organizer Patti Christensen, of Port Barrington. Christensen and Barbara Chaffee, of Barrington, helped organize the event.

A manger scene, donkeys and a goat were set up outside the church. Whipple Tree Farm supplied the donkeys.

Response was positive from church members. Some of the event was held outside, others warmer inside, as the Bible story of Mary and Joseph going from place to place was re-enacted.

"It reminds us of Jesus' birth on Earth and to feel grateful in our hearts," Katie Schumacher said.

"It was wonderful," member Wesley Schuhknecht said.

Once inside, the choirs sang several Christmas songs and watched the manger scene unfold. Meghan Murphy provided the solo.

Bean visits Fox Lake

Congresswoman reaches out to business leaders

By STEVE PETERSON
speterson@nwnewsgroup.com

FOX LAKE – Funding for veterans, Internet safety, and the foreclosure crisis are among many issues recently tackled by Congress.

Fox Lake business leaders heard an update on results when U.S. Rep. Melissa Bean, D-Barrington, addressed them at a regular monthly gathering.

In her second year, Bean told the Fox Lake Chamber that she has benefited in terms of getting legislation considered and approved.

"We have accomplished quite a bit," she said. "Two bills I was part of passed in the House of Representatives. One was for Internet safety, second, more federal resources for tracking digital footprints of those who are sex offenders and are online."

Regarding the mortgage crisis, one step being taken is further regulation of the non-bank lenders, who previously were unregulated, Bean said.

"That was passed on a bipartisan basis," she said. "It is really important for a number of reasons. There was lots of fear about mortgages ... most people are fiscally conservative."

Over the year, the Sept. 11, 2001, anti-terrorism commission recommendations were approved.

The Veterans Health Care bill was approved, with $77 million to the Veterans Administration and a special emphasis on traumatic brain injury.

Bean said working on swimming pool safety is important, because it is the No. 1 accidental killer of children.

A $14 billion energy bill was passed, but subsidies were changed to redirect them to renewable energies.

Traffic court breaks ground

The 19th Judicial Circuit Court and the Lake County Board broke ground recently to begin construction of the Park City Branch Traffic Court. Chief Judge Christopher C. Starck, Lake County Board Chairman Suzi Schmidt, and other key representatives from Lake County discussed the importance of the new traffic court facility expected to open in summer 2008.

The Park City Branch Court will replace the current court facility at Fountain Square in Waukegan, according to a release. The new facility will be larger and is expected to be better equipped to accommodate a high volume of cases.

The 14,175-square-foot building will have two courtrooms and an office of the Circuit Court Clerk. Once complete, this facility also will contain a 50 person multi-purpose room for use by the Probation Department and classroom training sessions. The construction budget for this facility is $3.8 million, according to the release.

"This new facility enhances our court system in order to more effectively serve the residents in the eastern region of the county," Schmidt said.

Scholarships available

Consumers Cooperative Association recently announced the availability of six $1,200 scholarships for high school seniors who are on pace to graduate in 2008.

CCA is the sponsor of Consumers Credit Union, a 50,000-plus member credit union with offices in Waukegan, Mundelein, Round Lake Beach, Gurnee and North Waukegan.

"Consumers Cooperative Association's scholarship program is a great way for our sponsor to take a leadership role in the local community," Sean Rathjen, CCU president, said in a release. "Education scholarship is one of the most important opportunities we can provide to the students."

Any high school student scheduled to graduate next spring can apply for one of the six scholarships. The applicant or parent-guardian must be a member of Consumers Credit Union for a minimum of a year to be eligible for the scholarship.

Applications are available at all five Consumers Credit Union locations and online at www.myconsumers.org.

To be considered, applicants must have completed an application along with a nonreturnable photo.

Application deadline is Feb. 1, 2008.

For information about Consumers Cooperative Association's scholarship program, call Karen Jarrett, CCU's Human Resources Manager, at 847-265-5517.

Lending a helping hand

Lake County YWCA offers health care assistance to women

By YADIRA SANCHEZ OLSON
ysanchez@nwnewsgroup.com

When facing a health issue, there are many places to turn for answers and help.

But for many under-insured women, knowing where to go to get answers is difficult.

And many wouldn't know what questions to ask.

That is why the YWCA Lake County offers programs that help women get the education and the services they need regarding their health, said Carmen Diaz, women's health coordinator at YWCA Lake County.

"There are a lot of women who are not only uninsured but underserved and that's why there's a need for our programs," Diaz said.

One of the programs the YWCA provides is ENCOREplus.

This program aims at educating women about breast and cervical cancer. Assistance also is provided.

"We schedule appointments, translate, give them rides to their doctor's appointments; anything they need we try to help with," said Diaz.

Consuelo Rodriguez, of Wauconda, got a mammogram through the YWCA in the summer 2005 and discovered she had breast cancer.

"Carmen took me to my first screening and since it was inconclusive they had to do another one," she said.

It was then that she was told by doctors that cancer was found in her left breast. It was also then that, through Diaz, the YWCA became Rodriguez's source of support.

"I helped Consuelo with rides and translation throughout her treatments," said Diaz.

But Rodriguez said she did more than that.

"Carmen was there every time I needed her," Rodriguez said. "She has helped me a lot. She's cried with me and she's still there for me now."

Even though Rodriguez has five children, because of their jobs and where they live, they were not able to help her with her appointments and

Residents speak out against deportation program

By MATT PERA
mpera@nwnewsgroup.com

Matt Pera - mpera@nwnewsgroup.com
Horacio Lopez Jr., co-vice president of the Waukegan Leadership Council, discusses his opposition to the Lake County Sheriff's Office applying for a officers to become eligible to deport illegal immigrants convicted of crimes.

This past summer, on July 17, thousands of people gathered outside of Waukegan City Hall to protest the implementation of a program called 287 (g). The measure, which was approved by the City Council, gave two Waukegan police officers the authority to begin deportation proceedings against illegal immigrants convicted of certain crimes.

There were not 1,000 - or even 10 - people at ReGar Realty in Gurnee on Dec. 13. But the small group that gathered was there to express the same concerns conveyed by protesters in July.

This time, the worries about 287 (g) were directed toward the Lake County Sheriff's Office.

Earlier this month, Lake County Sheriff Mark Curran announced that his office would be the fifth state agency to submit an application to become eligible for 287 (g). Curran said the deportation training would be for detention officers in the jail who process and supervise inmates.

"We're talking about child molesters, murderers, people who have committed aggravated battery," Curran said. "These are the undesirables who would be undesirable, regardless."

The program, however, has raised the ire of immigrant activists who say this program will increase racial profiling and make immigrants less likely to report crimes against them.

Those who met at ReGar Realty said they agree with that stance. The group has named itself the Waukegan Leadership Council, and consists of business owners, attorneys and politicians.

Baseball's lasting shame

Former Sen. George Mitchell confirmed much of what had been thought about Major League Baseball and the use of performance-enhancing drugs.

Essentially, the report states that in the absence of testing and enforcement, drug use became rampant in baseball. The use stretched from players who barely made the major leagues, to potential future Hall of Famers such as Roger Clemens and stars such as Andy Pettitte. None of this is a surprise.

Fans cannot expect cheating to ever be wiped away completely from professional sports. There always will be those who attempt to gain an unfair advantage.

However, the least sports fans should be able to expect is that league officials put forth a diligent, sincere effort to keep their sport clean. This is where baseball and football differ. Football has had an aggressive, broad testing program for decades, and every year star NFL players are caught violating the program and face consequences such as lengthy suspensions.

Baseball, on the other hand, tacitly allowed steroid use to flourish in the 1990s. The motivation is obvious: To rebuild a fan base that was decimated by the 1994 strike and cancellation of the World Series. And, for the most part, it worked. Baseball's popularity has rebounded, despite the ongoing scandal.

There is, however, going to be a great cost. There will be the long-term health consequences for players who recklessly abused steroids and human growth hormone.

But the biggest cost is the effect on America's youth. Teenagers grew up watching a bunch of cheaters shatter hallowed records.

To them, the message has been loud and clear: Success at any cost, fair play be damned. Just win, baby. Take steroids, get big and dominate. And if you don't, you are a chump.

The players, owners and league officials of baseball have to live with the fact that they helped promote steroid abuse to an entire generation of young athletes, and many of those young athletes will face health risks of their own. The legacy of baseball and the steroid era will be the immoral message it delivered to America's youth.

Give Antioch credit

To the editor:
When citizens of a community want to keep up with local news, more times than not, they read the newspapers. The public believes that the news media has the responsibility to be objective in their reporting, but there is a huge difference between reporting and editorializing.

Since the last election in Antioch, when the composition of the board changed, articles reporting the meetings activities seemed to have a negative slant, almost as if the writers themselves had an agenda.

I would like to report what I have heard at these board meetings. I have witnessed some of the best live entertainment. I recommend all citizens should attend.

The board now consist of two new trustees, Mike Wolczyk and Dennis Crosby. These men might not always agree, but it is clear they have Antioch's best interest at heart. As have the other four trustees.

I think Village President Dorothy Larson had to change direction because of this new board and soon-to-be appointed administrator. With these changes, I think Antioch will be the winner.

The very reason Dennis and Mike ran and were voted in, along with Larry Hanson and Bob Caulfield, was for their independent thinking, for which they are now being criticized.

They do not have a leader, they are not being orchestrated, as implied by the press and other critics. If so, it would be two nays on every controversial issue brought to a vote, as it was in the previous two years.

There are three negative issues that have been given much attention by the press. The first is Bob McCarty's liquor license and his position on the board. It was a fair debate, and let's hope it has been settled.

The second was the attorney issue. I personally can see both sides and I feel that the village president and the board will work out what's best for the community. Here again, name-calling and bad press hurt Antioch.

The third is the issue that bothers me the most. The meeting where Bob Caulfield took roll call to override the village president's veto for the attorney. In my opinion the board's vote would not have been valid even though they had a majority.

It was out of order, but it would have been defused, and business would have continued. I think Bob Caulfield is one of the most dedicated and concerned trustees Antioch has ever had. Antioch is lucky to have him. Right or wrong, that night, Bob was serving and doing the best for his constituents.

Help needed

To the editor:

My name is Barbara Gray and I am president of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4551 in Antioch. My husband is a retired Air Force veteran of the Vietnam war.

The Ladies Auxiliary began shipping care packages to our Armed Forces deployed to Iraq and Afghanistan in November 2006. Since that time we have sent more than 1,000 packages. As of Nov. 19, 2007, that number will rise to more than 1,200 packages.

Postage for each package is $8.95, making it an expensive project but one that is well worth the effort and cost. We have not done this alone. We have received tremendous support from the local community. The schools in the area have exceeded all expectations in supporting our cause. Our community has, once again, demonstrated that Antioch is a great place to live.

For us to continue sending care packages from home we need community support. Please consider a donation to the Ladies Auxiliary to the VFW Post 4551. Any support would be greatly appreciated and we will insure that all who donate are acknowledged in the next shipment of packages.

All donations should be made to:

Ladies Auxiliary to the VFW 4551, 75 North Ave., Antioch, IL 60002.

In the memo, please state that it is a Donation for Care Packages.

Lake County Board challenger on ballot

Lake County Board District 5 Republican candidate Kirk Denz is pleased that he has won a ruling that allows him to stay on the Feb. 5 ballot.

Denz, of Ingleside, is running against incumbent Bonnie Thomson Carter. A challenge came to Denz's petitions due to the listing of party affiliation. Denz said that Supreme Court rulings were in his favor. The Lake County Electoral Board ruled 2-1 in favor of Denz's petition.

Denz said that the opposition has tried to label him as a one-issue candidate, regarding his opposition to Wooster Lake boat rules.

"The priorities of the current administration are not what the taxpayers want," Denz said, adding that the spending is way out of line.

Denz also cited his previous experience working with government to get the roads improved in the Diamond Lake subdivision near Mundelein.

Carter is a four-term incumbent, also of Ingleside, who is president of the Lake County Forest Preserves.

Garrett honored

State Sen. Susan Garrett, D-Lake Forest, has been named the Legislator of the Year by the Illinois School Counselor Association, according to a release.

The DeKalb-based organization selected Garrett because of her ongoing advocacy for school counselors and the students they serve and her sponsorship of legislation that benefits counselors and students.

The award was presented to Garrett on Dec. 5 by Daniel Stasi, executive director of the Coalition of Illinois Counselor Associations, and Kathryn O'Dell, a counselor at Conant High School in Hoffman Estates who is the 2007 Illinois School Counselor of the Year.

"Sen. Garrett is well aware of the needs of school counselors and strongly supports our legislative issues," Stasi said in the release. "Her legislative record clearly shows her dedication to providing high-quality educational opportunities and support services to all students."

"I am very grateful to be chosen to receive this honor," Garrett said in the release.

Amstutz Expressway should keep its name

When you mention the Amstutz Highway in Waukegan, what are the first things that come to your mind? The "highway to nowhere," I'm sure, or, the highway where so many car crash scenes were produced for movies, might be your first thoughts.

The Amstutz Highway was the vision of Melvin E. Amstutz, who was the Superintendent of Highways of Lake County for 20 years and was an engineer with the county highway department for 45 years. He brought great respect to the community for his public service and he was known and given high recognition far and wide.

Melvin had this vision of building a four-lane highway that would start at Buckley Road and Route 41. The highway would head east and then north through North Chicago, Waukegan, Zion, and Winthrop Harbor. The highway would then link to a highway in Wisconsin. All of this highway would run along Lake Michigan, and Mr. Amstutz thought that, if built according to his plan, it would relieve the already congested Route 41 traffic going through Lake County to Milwaukee.

Drawing a vision on paper is one thing. Putting it through the hoops of politics and funding is another. It was controversial from the start, mostly because the cost was extremely high.

The vision was great, but, from a practical standpoint, the Amstutz Highway should never have been started.

State Rep. John Connolly was chairman of the House Transportation Committee and he used his pull to authorize the funding for what became the Amstutz. He convinced Melvin and others that if you build the middle, it's logical that they'll tie in both ends later.

The rest is history.

Now, State Rep. Eddie Washington, D-Waukegan, has proposed that the Amstutz should be renamed the Bobby E. Thompson Expressway, in honor the former mayor North Chicago.

Mr. Amstutz passed away in 1970, and the Amstutz opened in 1974, so he didn't even witness the start of his dream highway. To me, it was appropriate to name the highway after Melvin E. Amstutz.

I think that it would be a shame to rename the Amstutz - ever. I think Thompson would feel the same if sometime soon, some politician chose to rename the Thompson Manor Senior Housing Complex in North Chicago after someone else. It just isn't right.

John Matijevich writes a weekly column for the Lake County Journals.

Curran defends 287 (g) application

• DEPORTATION

One member of the group, Waukegan 4th Ward Alderman Tony Figueroa, was one of two aldermen who voted against 287 (g) at the Waukegan City Council meeting in July.

He explained on Dec. 13 that the measure does more harm than good, pointing out that federal officials already have the authority to carry out the duties given to local law enforcement officers through 287 (g).

"We are not opposed to removing the criminal element from our community [but] whenever you have a person of authority linked with [Immigration and Customs Enforcement] then there's a fear in the community," Figueroa said.

Porfirio Garcia, owner of ReGar Realty and president of the Waukegan Leadership

“We feel like it's affecting our community and feel its simply not necessary.

Porfirio Garcia

President of Waukegan Leadership Council and owner of ReGar Realty

”Council, agreed. "We feel like it's affecting our community and feel its simply not necessary," he said. "It only alienates our community"

On Dec. 10 the group sent a letter to Curran asking that he withdraw the Lake County Sheriff's Office application for training through 287 (g).

"[W]e look forward to meeting with you so that we can come together and focus on ways to make a better Lake County versus engaging in tactics that only push a frightened immigrant community further into the shadows," the letter read in part.

As of Dec. 13, no meeting had been set up between Curran and the council, said Jacqueline Herrera, director of legalization for the Chicago-based Institute for Latino Progress.

"This is not the community we want to live in," Herrera said. "Safety starts with having open dialogue and relationships with local law enforcement."

Curran, however, voiced a different perspective on the program.

"To the critics, I'd say wake up," he said. "We're not in the business of turning up racial prejudices. It's about enforcement of the law."

Meet the Grayslake Griswolds

Nestled in the Arbor Vista subdivision off of Route 45 in Grayslake, the Cholewa family's Christmas display includes 15,000 lights, 176 candy canes, Santa Claus and reindeer decorations, a "Polar Express" train, a carousel, eight 6-foot-tall nutcrackers, and much more.

Lake County family decorates its home with 15,000 lights, other Christmas decorations

By DANIEL J. PATRICK
dpatrick@nwnewsgroup.com

Countless Christmas-themed movies dominate network lineups this time of year. And "Christmas Vacation," starring Chevy Chase, stands as a holiday classic. In one of the scenes of the movie, Chase's character, Clark W. Griswold, blinds his neighbors with thousands of lights decorating his home.

Try as he might, Griswold has nothing on Grayslake resident Joe Cholewa.

Nestled in the Arbor Vista subdivision just off of Route 45 is the Cholewa house. Joe has decorated it with more than 15,000 lights, 176 candy canes, five 6-foot-tall Nutcracker soldiers, a working carousel, Santa Claus and reindeer decorations, and just about every other light-up Christmas decoration available.

Joe lives with his sister Bonni and his mother, Elaine. Because of the family's impressive display of lights, Elaine has counted thousands of people who have stopped their cars to check out the family's house.

"[Joe's] like Chevy Chase and the Griswolds," Bonni said. "With all these lights, all of our friends call us the Griswolds, all of our neighbors call us the Griswolds, everyone."

Joe started his collection about a decade ago. In 1998, Joe said, he started the light display with a few angels, Santa Claus, reindeer, and a sleigh - a display that would make most men proud. But Joe is not your average man.

"He started this thing in 1998, and every year, he just keeps adding and adding, and adding," Bonni said. "Now, there's so much that we hardly have enough room to keep it all. We've easily spent over $15,000 on everything."

Unlike the Griswolds' neighbors, the Cholewas' neighbors actually appreciate the boundless light pouring in their windows. But, Joe said, he helps the process along with a little diplomacy.

"I keep my neighbors happy by doing their gardening, but they realize that it's all for the kids," he said. "But I also gave some of my older stuff to my neighbors. One of them has an old Santa Claus and a sleigh."

Joe said he's been able to keep his neighbors happy, despite thousands of gawkers and tons of lights.

Enough is never enough

Another, "Christmas Vacation" scene shows the power company kicking in auxiliary power just to keep up with Clark's lights. As it turns out, that movie isn't too far from the truth.

Thanks to the Cholewas' lights, the family's electric bill more than triples during the holiday season.

"The average house has a 100-amp service, so we had a circuit breaker board with 20 circuit breakers when we first bought the house," Bonni said. "So when he first started adding things, the electrician had to put in 40 breakers, and then he put in a sub-panel, and that's got eight more circuit breakers, and that's just for the outside, so we have a separate circuit breaker just for the outside of the house."

The Cholewas have knocked out a wall in their house to fit all of the Christmas decorations in the offseason. Now, there are two complete walk-in closets with four 6-foot doors so Joe can bring out his pieces of Christmas cheer.

Even though Christmas is still a few days away, Joe has already bought more decorations for next year.

So what will this Santa Claus of sorts get for his Christmas gift? A 5,500-watt generator so he can add even more to his collection.

"My electrician told me that I'm tapped out; he told me that I can't add any more," Joe said. "But now that I've got that generator, next year, I'm going across the driveway. And there's plenty of space over there for even more."

In the United States, Christmas is usually celebrated by getting together with loved ones and giving gifts to family members and friends. But how is the holiday celebrated in other parts of the world?

The Lake County Forest Preserves is helping residents find out through sponsoring an event called La Fiesta Navideña: La Posada from 6 to 8 p.m. Dec. 21 at the Greenbelt Cultural Center in North Chicago. La Posada means "the journey" in Spanish and, according to the cultural center's Web site (www.greenbeltculturalcenter.org), it is a Latin American holiday celebration that commemorates the Holy Family's journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem in search of shelter.

"In our committee meetings, ... the members thought that Hispanic youth born in America needed to understand the cultural and religious importance of this holiday," said Christell Ayers, facility manager at Greenbelt Cultural Center.

Those who celebrate La Posada, Ayers said, give small gifts such as nuts, candies, or cookies to others.

She said the cultural center's event will have dancing, snacks, raffles, giveaways, and a candlelight procession that will re-enact the journey of Mary and Joseph through singing. She added that this is the third year the event is taking place at the cultural center.

"As a cultural center, it's our job to help people of different nationalities to understand these holidays," she said. "Christmas isn't just about gifts. It's about family and togetherness."

'Sweeney Todd' a bloody good film

By JEFFREY WESTHOFF
sidetracks@nvnnews.com

Tim Burton has turned "Sweeney Todd: The Demon Barber of Fleet Street" into the most elegant slasher movie ever made.

Perhaps that shouldn't be a surprise. By now, audiences should be familiar with Stephen Sondheim's musical about a demented London barber (played by Johnny Depp) who murders his clients and dumps the bodies in the restaurant below, where his accomplice, Mrs. Lovett (Helena Bonham Carter), bakes the victims into pies.

The material, with cannibalism upon serial killing, certainly would appeal to Burton's longstanding love for macabre humor, but the level of gore Burton goes for will still come as a shock. "Sweeney Todd" makes the original "Nightmare on Elm Street" look like "Pee-wee's Big Adventure."

"Sweeney Todd" is a tribute to the bloody 1960s Hammer Studios horror films that Burton wanted "Sleepy Hollow" to be. Once Sweeney Todd turns his straight razor into a murder weapon, Burton lets blood erupt like Vesuvius, right down to a deadpan musical montage of graphic throat slashings. But the queasiness doesn't stop there.

"Sweeney Todd"

Genre: Musical/thriller
Writer: John Logan
Director: Tim Burton
More information: Rated R for graphic bloody violence; running time is 117 minutes

Each cut throat is followed by the sickening sight of the corpse landing head first on the basement floor three stories below.

If Burton intended to make the violence so extreme that we want to laugh at it, then he failed. Even if you get used to the bloodshed, it detracts from the rest of Burton's exquisite production values.

The early 19th century London of "Sweeney Todd" is another of Burton's dark fantasy landscapes. Burton, cinematographer Dariusz Wolski (the "Pirates of the Caribbean" films), and production designer Dante Ferretti ("Gangs of New York") manipulate reality so that London is a constant gray. The sky is permanently overcast, and the buildings are streaked with soot.

This view of London as a "hole in the world" comes from Todd's opening song as he returns from an Australian penal colony after serving 15 years on trumped-up charges.

Todd hopes to find his wife waiting for him, but Mrs. Lovett informs him she poisoned herself after being violated by Judge Turpin (Alan Rickman), the corrupt magistrate who sent Todd away.

Todd further learns his daughter, Johanna (Jayne Wisener), now 16, is Turpin's ward and veritable prisoner. As Todd plots his revenge against Turpin, an encounter with an egotistical Italian barber (splendidly played by comedian Sasha Baron Cohen) proves to Todd he hates the world so much that he doesn't care whom he kills. With Mrs. Lovett needing fresh ingredients for her meat pies, a serial killer is born.

Sondheim's musical is only the most famous version of Todd's story, which first appeared 150 years ago and has been adapted into several English plays and films. Filmmaker's struggled with bringing Sondheim's version to the screen since its 1979 Broadway premiere.

If not for the powerhouse combination of Burton and Depp, celluloid "Sweeney Todd" would have continued to languish.

Giorgio's Grille: The best in casual dining Giorgio's Grille proves that casual dining doesn't require sacrificing variety and quality. The restaurant offers a complete menu guaranteed to satisfy everyone from the kids to the most discerning palate.

Open for just four months, Giorgio's Grille reflects the owners' 45 years experience in the restaurant business. The decor is inviting, but sophisticated with muted tones of gray and black. Booths are large and comfortable—just the right haven on a cold, wintry day. In addition, Giorgio's has a lounge with a full bar and two flat-screen, LCD TV's to catch the latest game. There's also a party room that accommodates up to 50 people.

The menu is extensive, so it was difficult for this writer to pick just one dish. Giorgio's Grille features a wide range of appetizers, salads, burgers, sandwiches, pasta, seafood, ribs, steak, broasted chicken, and pizza. There's even gourmet stuffed baked potatoes like the "Chili and Cheddar" smothered in Giorgio's homemade chili, melted cheddar, and onion.

And if you like Italian food, Giorgio's Grille is the place to eat. I chose the house specialty, "Giorgio's Carbonara," from among the 18 pasta dishes: an ample serving of penne pasta with pancetta bacon and portabella mushrooms in a tomato cream sauce with just the right spice. This comes with a choice of homemade soup, or a fresh garden salad.

Giorgio's prices are reasonable, especially considering the large portion sizes. Entrée prices start at $5.95 for a 2-piece dinner of Giorgio's famous broasted chicken, and end at $21.95 for their combination platter of New York strip steak and garlic shrimp.

Service is fast and friendly, with a genuine interest in creating a satisfying dining experience.

The restaurant also offers daily drink and meal specials. Take advantage of half-price appetizers and beer specials on Sunday and Monday. Tuesday is fiesta night, with Mexican food specials and $4.00 Margaritas. Wednesday you can buy one pizza and get one free, and enjoy a $5.00 martini. Bring the kids on Thursday when you can buy one kid's meal and

Crab and Ruby Grapefruit Salad With White Wine Vinaigrette

Winter greens are topped with delicate grapefruit and crab for a light salad that provides a break from the rich flavors of the soup and the main course to follow.

Makes: 8 servings

- 2 bunches watercress, washed and dried
- 1/2 pound Belgian endive, washed, dried and torn into pieces
- 3 cups baby spinach or arugula, washed and dried
- 2 cups lump crab meat
- 3 ruby grapefruits, peeled and segmented
- Dressing
- 2 cups dry white wine (Fume Blanc or Chardonnay)
- 2 medium shallots, peeled and finely minced
- Grated zest of 1 large lemon
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon white wine vinegar
- 1 teaspoon salt (more if needed)
- 1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
- 1 to 1-1/2 cups extra virgin olive oil
- 1 cup pomegranate seeds (optional)

For the vinaigrette, place wine in saucepan and bring to a boil. Turn down to simmer and reduce to 1/2 cup liquid. Remove from heat and add shallots and lemon zest. Let cool to room temperature.

Transfer to a bowl. Whisk in lemon juice, vinegar, salt and pepper. Continue whisking and add oil; stop to taste (you may not need all the oil). Dressing should be tangy and full flavor. Set aside. Dressing can be made 2 days in advance and refrigerated.

In large bowl, toss together greens, crab and grapefruit. Pour dressing over salad and toss to coat evenly.

Chef Sarah's Chocolate Sauce for Cream Puffs

With the addition of a luxurious chocolate sauce, frozen cream puffs from Sam's Club (Poppies International) are an elegant conclusion to this festive meal. Garnish the plate with toasted almonds or hazelnuts. This silky sauce can be served immediately, or cooled and refrigerated up to 2 weeks. Reheat slowly in the microwave.

Makes: 8 servings

- 1-1/4 cups water
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup light corn syrup
- 3/4 cup unsweetened cocoa powder, sifted (Dutch processed)
- Pinch of salt
- 2 ounces bittersweet chocolate, chopped
- 2 tablespoons unsalted butter

In a small saucepan, combine water, sugar and corn syrup and bring to simmer.

Separately in a small bowl, whisk together cocoa powder and salt. Whisk into hot water mixture, making sure to break up any lumps of cocoa. Whisk until well combined; remove from heat.

Break up bittersweet chocolate and whisk into hot cocoa mixture. When it is melted, add butter and continue whisking until well combined and smooth. Serve over frozen cream puffs once sauce is slightly cooled.

Select good quality frozen hors d'oeuvres like mini quiches, crostini or cooked shrimp that only need to be crisped in the oven or served at room temperature. Frozen cakes and miniature cream puffs only need thawing, a drizzle of wonderful sauce and a holiday garnish to look and taste great. Affordable luxuries like caviar and fine chocolates make a festive statement without costing you hours in the kitchen.

Secondly, consider this caterer's secret: Quality ingredients need only simple preparation to dazzle. You can easily begin roasting a beef tenderloin in the oven while preparing the Crab and Ruby Grapefruit Salad with premium ingredients. Accompany your party dish with an effortless but gourmet sauce or dressing that can be made ahead of time to really wow your guests.

And finally, do what caterers do: Let "make ahead" be your mantra. The more food preparation you can do before your party, the more you'll relax and have fun. After all, it's your party.

FOLDOVERS

Something Different

We are an original pizza concept serving unique food with sincere service.
Our FOLDOVERS and Specialties Of The House are our primary entity.

WHAT IS A FOLDOVER?

That's easy to explain. A FOLDOVER is a pizza crust folded over the stuffed with many varieties of tantalizing ingredients then baked in the oven to a golden brown. The crust is then opened. Fresh condiments are piled inside to finish it off! Go ahead and try one today, we know you'll be hooked!!!

SAGITTARIUS – Nov. 23/Dec. 21
Others will expect you to be the life of the party, but you struggle to find the energy, Sagittarius.

CAPRICORN – Dec. 22/Jan. 20
Capricorn, if money issues get you frazzled, it should come as no surprise – stop spending.

AQUARIUS – Jan. 21/Feb. 18
There's no use fighting the waves on an issue that proves a bone of contention, Aquarius.

PISCES – Feb. 19/March 20
Pisces, if others are looking at you strangely, it could be because you're giving off odd vibes. But you enjoy marching to your own beat.

ARIES – March 21/April 20
Aries, avoid the urge to rush through something you have to accomplish. Otherwise, you'll have to spend more time redoing it later.

TAURUS – April 21/May 21
An inspirational meeting will take place, Taurus. Take what you can from it to impart positive changes in your life.

GEMINI – May 22/June 21
A conflict at work escalates, Gemini. Remember, it takes two to tango, so avoid the situation.

CANCER – June 22/July 22
For those Cancers thinking about settling down with someone special, now is the time to do so.

LEO – July 23/Aug. 23
Leo, an adventure can occur if you throw caution to the wind and dive right in.

VIRGO – Aug. 24/Sept. 22
Virgo, do something that is outside your realm of experience. You will get a charge from the new surroundings and tasks learned.

LIBRA – Sept. 23/Oct. 23
Rash decisions are not advised at this time, Libra. Keep the status quo into early next year.

SCORPIO – Oct. 24/Nov. 22
Don't let your temper get the best of you, Scorpio. Staying level-headed is what's needed.

All hail King Ramsey

Last week, something happened in Warren country. No, it wasn't Sarah Boothe's absolute dominance. And no, it wasn't the boys team's winning streak coming to an end, but it did have something to do with the boys hoops team.

It was Warren boys basketball coach Chuck Ramsey's 300th win. While the ceremony ended up with an unfortunate 66-60 loss to Stevenson, it didn't tarnish the Ramsey's achievement in any way.

Three hundred wins ... it kind of rolls off the tongue, doesn't it? But even more impressive is the time that he's reached such a milestone.

Ramsey started coaching at Warren in the 1993-1994 season, so it has been about 14 years. With 300 wins in 14 years, he's averaged 21-plus wins a season. And he's never finished below .500 in his entire coaching career.

Most prep basketball coaches struggle to get more than 20 wins in even one season, but to average that kind of number during more than a decade of coaching is simply amazing. During his tenure, Warren won 11 regional championships, five sectionals, and even finished as the state runner-up in 1999.

His worst season came in his rookie year at the helm of the program when the Blue Devils went 14-13. Once again, that number would be one that many head coaches would wear like a badge.

Sure, he inherited quite a program from ex-Blue Devil coach Darrel Bader, but Ramsey's .734 winning percentage outshines Bader's .678.

This year, many thought that Ramsey and his Devils were in trouble after losing so much talent from last year's sectional championship team. With a 5-0 start, it seems that such an appraisal was completely wrong.

Can you believe that there was even talk of cutting Ramsey off after he retired as a full-time teacher last year? Luckily the Warren Township High School District 121 School Board saw the light and allowed Ramsey to keep his job and attain his 300th win.

So even though Ramsey and the Blue Devils are in a bit of a slide right now, I think his résumé speaks for itself. So Warren fans, shake Ramsey's hand and don't forget to cheer.

As for the rest of you, just hope that you've got an amazing team to line up with Ramsey's Blue Devils.

Hockey players decide between high school, travel teams

By JESSICA JACOBSEN
jjacobsen@nwnews-group.com

Kyle Flood doesn't have much time.

The Zion-Benton senior is balancing a job and deciding where he wants to go to college.

But Kyle has a little bit extra on his plate. He plays hockey for the Lake County Atoms, a traveling hockey team that plays at Rinkside in Gurnee Mills Mall. The team generally plays teams nearby, but plays teams as far as Peoria, St. Louis and Omaha, Neb.

Kyle, 17, is on the Midget Major squad, which consists of ages 15 to 18, and has been playing for 14 years. "[I started] pretty much through my dad," he said.

Kyle's dad, Norm, used to play hockey but now spends a lot of his time traveling with Kyle.

"It's a pretty big commitment," Norm said. "You have to pack up and go."

The Atoms play two games a week, usually weekend tournament games, and practice twice a week. Norm said that Kyle also has two days a week when he does off-ice workouts.

"Hockey probably eats up four to five evenings a week," Norm said.

Even though hockey takes up a lot of Kyle's time, he doesn't regret it.

"I love the game," he said.

Kyle began playing in a house league when he was younger, Norm said. But when Kyle got to high school, Zion-Benton didn't have a club hockey program.

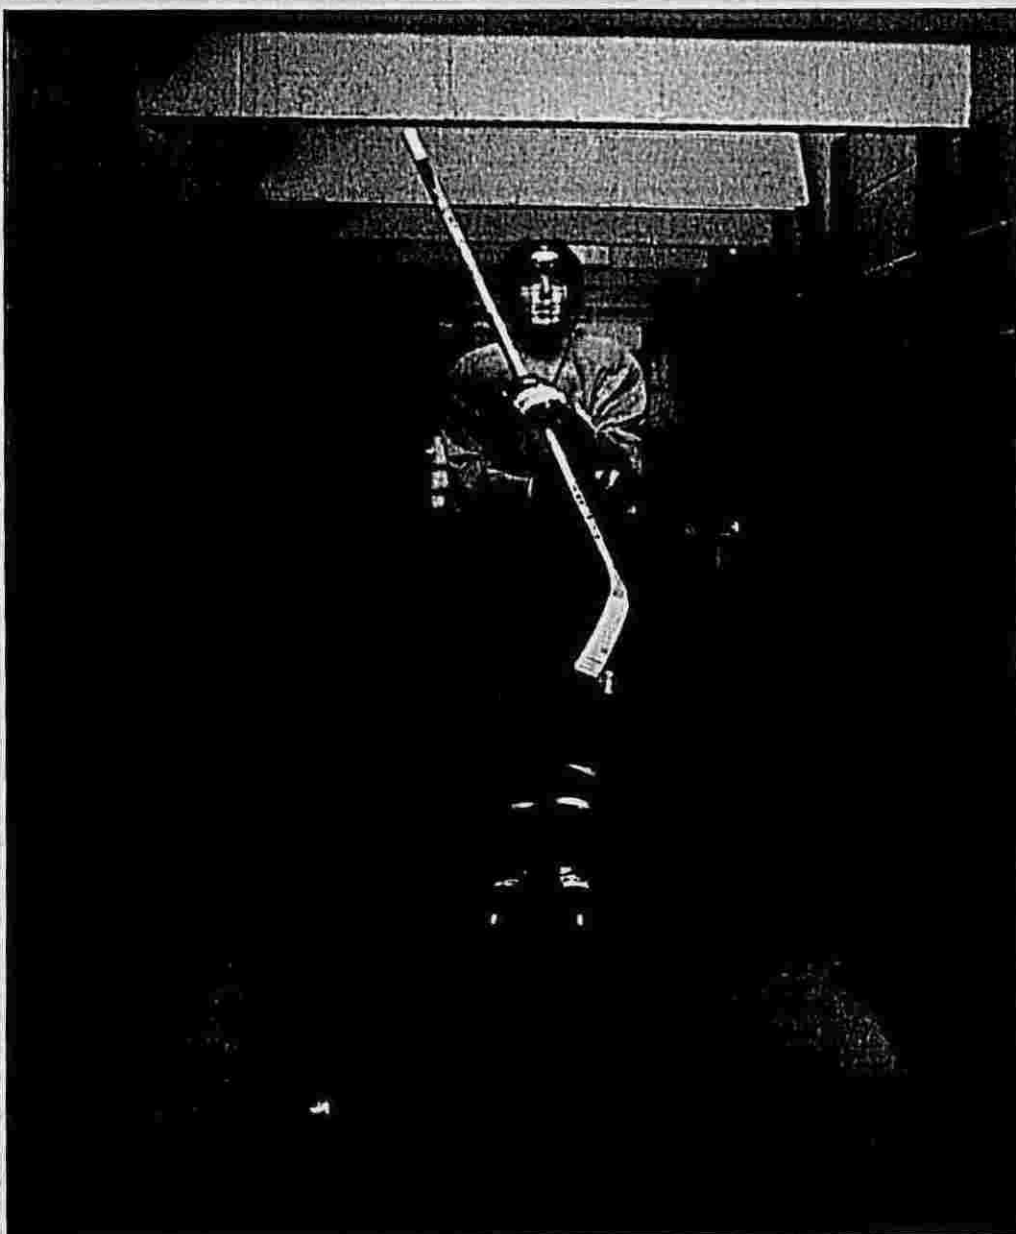

"Even if my high school had a program, I wouldn't have played for them," Kyle said.

Kyle said he enjoys the intensity level of play he experiences with the Atoms and wouldn't want that to change.

His 14-year span in hockey has Kyle wanting to play during college, he said, but right now he's not sure where.

Staying local

Though Kyle enjoys being on a traveling team, many parents and kids have opted for joining high school club teams. Andy Kleiner,

Annie Christie - achristie@nwnews-group.com

Marty Diesenothe, of the Ramquoits, walks down a corridor at Rinkside in Gurnee before hockey practice. The Ramquoits are a club hockey team with players from Antioch, Lakes, Grayslake Central, Grayslake North and Waukegan high schools.

president for the Mundelein hockey club, said his son Jamie used to play for the Glenview Stars, a travel team.

Jamie, 16, decided to join a club team once he entered high school. Jamie is a sophomore at Mundelein High School.

"Basically, he was starting high school and wanted the opportunity to play with his friends," Andy said.

Andy said Jamie had many friends who played for different travel organizations and they wanted to play together, but Jamie still enjoyed playing with the Stars.

One difference between club and travel teams is the practice schedule.

"It's not less hockey, but it is less hockey practice," Andy said.

The Mustangs practice twice a week but play 40 to 45 games, Andy said. The team still does some traveling. Earlier this season they played a tournament in Detroit.

"We've done our best to make it more like travel," Andy said.

Take your pick

Because the club season and the travel season take place at the same time, players are forced to choose between the two.

Paul Novak, director of hockey at Warren Township High School and varsity head coach, said Illinois is one of a few states that has the programs going on at the same time. "They run at the same time ... so

Slap shot

This week is the final story in a Lake County Journals two-part series about hockey programs the area has to offer.

• Dec. 13: Breakaway clubs: As more hockey players come out to play, schools transition from joint teams to pure teams. But some still enjoy the multiple school atmosphere.

• Dec. 20: Neutral zone: Parents and kids decide whether a club or travel team is right for them.

Unfortunately the kids have to choose," he said.

Novak has been coaching for about 12 years now and is in his third year at Warren.

When it comes to comparing the two programs, Novak said, you can't.

"They're apples and oranges," he said.

He said comparing club teams to travel teams would be unfair because of the differences in the number of teams. There are significantly fewer midget-level travel than there are high school teams, he said.

"If you compare the top teams in travel and the top teams in clubs, it's going to be the same," Novak said.

He also added that it would be a good game to watch. But if you compare the lowest rated team in high school to travel that could be a different story, Novak said.

One advantage, Novak said, he has seen with club programs are those that have a varsity and junior varsity program, like Warren does.

"It's kind of like a minor league," Novak said of the high school system.

By having a junior varsity team, if a player experiences an injury a player can be called up from the junior varsity squad.

"You really don't get that in travel," he said.

Novak emphasized that every program is different, but most programs have one thing in common.

"The bottom line is to make the most of your experience," he said.

Get a breakdown on the state of the mat

By DANIEL J. PATRICK
dpatrick@nwnews-group.com

Breaking up is a hard thing to do. Antioch and Lakes had trouble with it before, and now, so have the Grayslake Central Rams.

"We're doing alright considering the numbers we have," Central coach Brent Pitt said. "We're wrestling eight [in last week's Mundelein quad] and it's hard to win duals when you're so far down on numbers."

Pitt blamed his team's dual meet troubles on the school's split with Grayslake North. Much like Antioch and Lakes a few years ago, numbers problems didn't arise until a couple of years after the split.

Now, the problems are apparent at the parent school as Central is wrestling with just 28 guys at all levels.

"We haven't won any duals yet," Pitt said. "It's tough to win dual meets when you're giving up 36 points right off the bat."

But while the team as a whole has struggled, individuals have succeeded. Specifically, Ryan Lund has shined for Grayslake Central.

Last week, Lund won all six of his matches at the Mundelein Bad Mark Invitational.

Lund wrestles in the 135-pound weight class, but also wrestled in other weight divisions.

"It's all about individuals right now; we're not worrying about duals now," Pitt said. "Lund is really strong, he's been wrestling in 130, 135, and 140-pound weight class. But everyone else is always looking to compete."

Sarah Boothe - Warren

Beyond her 6-foot-5 frame, Sarah Boothe's game stands head and shoulders above her competition. In a win against Mundelein Dec. 17, she put up 19 points, 12 rebounds and six blocks. In the game before that, she also put up 20 points, eight rebounds and five blocks.

Ryan Lund - Grayslake Central

With a perfect 6-of-6 record in the Mundelein Bad Mark Invitational last weekend, Ryan Lund continues to build his résumé as one of the best wrestlers in the area. With a short staff of wrestlers for Grayslake Central, Lund stands as a beacon of light.

Vernon Hills Cougars

What: Boys Basketball
Where: The United Center in Chicago
When: 2 p.m., Saturday Dec. 22

How often do you get to see a high school boys basketball at The United Center? Well, plenty these days with the Bulls' "Preps With Pros" program, but that shouldn't stop you from watching a nice game between nearby rivals, Carmel and Vernon Hills. The East Suburban Catholic Conference Carmel Corsairs (2-9, 0-4) are looking to break their four-game losing streak as they take on the North Suburban Conference Vernon Hills Cougars (4-4, 3-1).

It's tourney time!

Justin Hotle, of Lakes, battles for the ball with Gilbert Sheehan, of Grant, during a basketball game at Grant High School. Grant's boys basketball team is getting ready for the Grant Holiday Tournament, which begins Dec. 22. Lakes also will compete in the tournament.

Something to celebrate

Warren coach Chuck Ramsey recognized for 300 wins

By STEVE PETERSON
speterson@nwnewsgroup.com

GURNEE - The evening started out well for the Warren boys basketball team. Unfortunately for the Blue Devils, the ending was a different story.

On Dec. 14, Warren coach Chuck Ramsey received a plaque from Warren Township High School Athletic Director Mark Pos for achieving 300 victories in 15 years at the helm. Ramsey recorded his 300th win against Lake Forest, with a 71-63 final.

"I know what it represents. It represents a lot of great players and a tremendous coaching staff, and I have been blessed with both of those," Ramsey said.

But by the end of the night, Pos, Ramsey, and the Blue Devils nation had a different taste in their collective mouths.

Stevenson ended up handing Warren a 66-60 loss that night. The next night the Blue Devils headed to Champaign to play New Trier and lost 61-50, putting Warren at 5-3, 0-2 in the North Suburban Conference Lake Division.

Ramsey and the Blue Devils have not recorded a win since he reached his milestone mark.

Warren is at the Pontiac Christmas tourney until Dec. 29.

After break, Warren hosts Libertyville on Jan. 9 to restart North Suburban Conference Lake Division action.

Wrestling teams try to make names for themselves

• WRESTLING

Grayslake North carves out an identity

Two years after the Grayslake split, Grayslake North coach Steve Wood is happy with the direction of his program.

In 2007, the team has already gained 10 more wrestlers than last year. Overall, Wood has 41 wrestlers on the team — 13 more than his crosstown counterpart Grayslake Central.

What that has added up to is a 3-6 dual record and a marked improvement compared to 2006.

"At this point in the season, we've won more matches this year than last," Wood said. "Each of our kids already has at least one win and we couldn't say that at the end of last year so we've definitely improved."

Amongst the Knights' biggest weapons are senior 125-pounder David Pritchett and 135-pound sophomore Danny Mendoza. Overall, Mendoza has put together a 13-3 record while Pritchett has a 10-5 record.

"Those are the two guys with winning records, but we've got a lot of other guys sitting right at .500," Wood said. "Our numbers are pretty good, but once the new year begins, we'll be able to field all 14 weight classes and we should be able to win more duals."

Thus far, North has been able to typically fill 12 to 13 weight classes, putting the Knights in a much better position to win than the Rams. But Wood is confident that he can fill all 14 slots once more wrestlers return after the new year.

Wauconda talent returns

Junior Scott Carlson continues to be the leader of the Wauconda wrestling team.

Carlson has topped 10 wins already, as he had the only Wauconda win over Crystal Lake Central and also pinned an Elgin wrestler recently at 145.

The Bulldogs have also had some young, eager squad members ready to leave their mark.

Mike Brown at 119 has been a steady force as well, with seven varsity wins, as has Jeff Costa at 125.

"Brown has improved on his feet and has been able to get more takedowns," Wauconda assistant coach Bob Kenison said.

Junior Augustin Morales is back at 140, and so is senior Brett Collier at 189.

"It takes a good kid to beat Brett," Kenison said.

Sophomore Mike Thomas is up on varsity contributing at 112 and 119; sophomore Tom Tyrrell is 3-2 on the varsity at 130 and 135; sophomore Tyler Glover is 1-1 at 150 and 162.

"The young kids have been doing a good job," Kenison said.

Wauconda, 2-5 in duals, beat Elgin 45-36, but lost to Crystal Lake Central and Evanston recently.

Wauconda was at a two-day

Glenbrook South meet, before the team will host its "bad mark" competition Jan. 5 after winter break.

Grant still on top

Grant wrestlers came home with five champions, one second-place finish and a big trophy from the two-day Glenbrook South, 16 team tournament. Grant ran away from the field for the team title.

Grant's Lee Munster, champion at 140 pounds, was voted Most Outstanding Wrestler by the coaches.

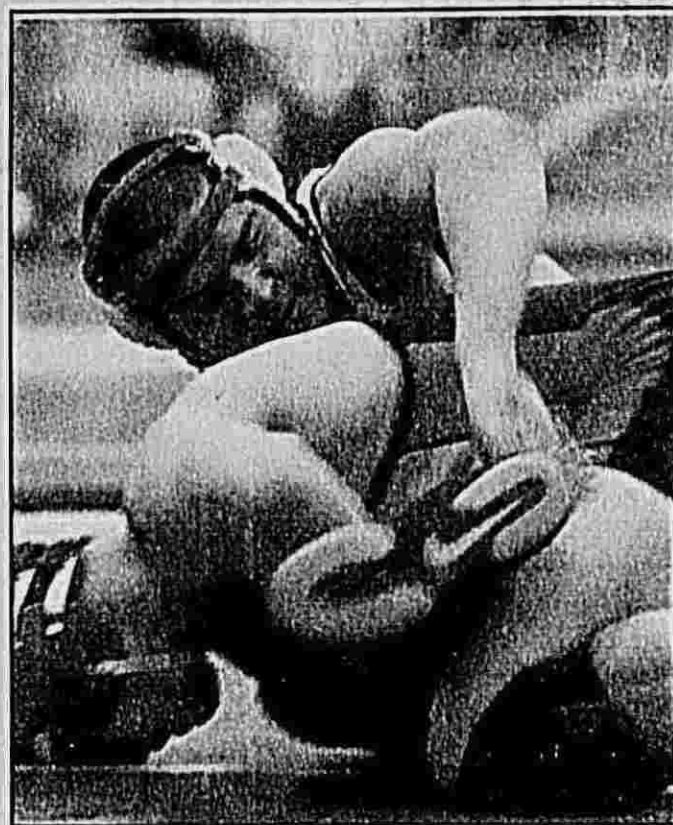

The following also were winners for the Bulldogs: sophomore Jason Montemayor (119, who is 15-2); senior Izzy Montemayor (125) is 13-2; Shelby Temple (130); and Dave Monroy (215) is 11-2 season.

"Our goal is to be competitive in every match and meet," Grant coach Ryan Geist said. "Knowing how tough our conference and regional is, we are just trying to improve each week to prepare ourselves for the end of the year."

Next week, there will be another wrestling report about Antioch, Carmel, Lakes Round Lake and Warren wrestling teams.

• Lake County Journals reporter Steve Peterson contributed to this report.

Earth Paints Collection Systems is painting a brighter future

By LESLIE GLAZIER-WERNER

Earth Paints Collection Systems means business when it comes to saving the environment.

Owner George Beucher said he started his recycling business when he couldn't find an environmentally safe way to dispose of 30 gallons of latex paint from his home improvement business. George said he thinks Earth Paints Collection Systems is now the only private used latex paint collector in the country.

"Last year over 69 million gallons of latex paint were dumped into U.S. landfills," George noted. Although Illinois government considers latex paint non-hazardous because it's water-based, George stressed that the paint seeps out and gets into the groundwater, contaminating plants and animals.

Beucher's goal is to keep as much of this paint out of landfills as possible by setting up used latex paint collection sites at hardware and paint stores. George said he currently has 16 retailers participating. Consumers can drop off unwanted product for a ing on collecting used latex paint from state, county, and local government.

Earth Paints Collection Systems takes this used paint and consolidates it into 55-gallon drums for shipment to manufacturers that turn it into an additive for cement, or reprocess it into new paint. George said that recycled paint is significantly cheaper than other paint. "So why buy new when you can buy recycled paint?" Beucher added that's why he just sold a pallet of recycled paint to a local school district.

"Everybody needs to do their part to dispose of latex paint properly, and everyday they're coming up with new uses for recycled paint," George said. "Keeping that paint out of landfills is very important. I have 4 kids. What I leave them is everything."

Zook is Florida's gift to Illini fans

Before packing up and heading west to Pasadena for the Rose Bowl, there are two tasks every Illinois football fan should make sure to complete.

The first would be to visit a tanning bed. In fact, I cannot stress this enough. As touring Midwesterners, Fighting Illini supporters are sure to stand out on Rodeo Drive like a year-old pair of Jimmy Choo shoes.

The second – and more important – job would be to sit down with a piece of paper and pen and write the most heartfelt thank-you letter ever written. Upon completion, it should be addressed to Jeremy Foley, athletic director at the University of Florida.

Thank you for Ron Zook, it should say. I know what you're thinking: Why thank Foley when Zook and the rest of his Illinois team are responsible for this nice trip to the Rose Bowl?

Well, without ol' Jeremy, Illinois might be enjoying its sixth straight New Year's Day from the comfort of a living room. If Foley hadn't fired Zook as Florida's head coach in 2004, the football facilities in Champaign might be a much quieter place these days.

Kevin Kaduk

Instead, the football offices are filled with holiday bustle as 9-3 Illinois prepares to face USC in the program's first Rose Bowl appearance since 1984. Recently Zook and his players met the media for the first round of a multi-week appearance in the national spotlight.

"I'm so happy for the Illini Nation," Zook said. "There was never a doubt when I took this job ... I always thought about getting here."

Of course, none of this would be possible without Zook, who went 23-15 in three seasons in Gainesville but was run out of town. His main crime?

While it's likely Gators fans don't miss Zook much – his replacement, Urban Meyer, won last year's national championship – their disregard for his ability to recruit talent allowed the Illini to acquire a top-level coach who still has his best days ahead of him.

But make no mistake, this Rose Bowl season ranks as a big achievement in itself, especially because the Illini coaches did it without a strong core of upperclass talent.

"We're young, (but) I think for us to get where we're at right now, it shows these players care about these coaches," Zook said. "It shows that there is a respect there on both sides. These guys are listening."

That's not to say Zook and his staff don't have more to prove before fully being anointed saviors of Illinois football. Considering the Illini are 13 1/2-point underdogs against USC.

But because Zook was an established big coach before he got to Illinois and took only three seasons to reach a Rose Bowl, there are plenty of reasons to be grateful he is coaching the Illini instead of the Gators.

Our goal is your trust.

For the past 25-years, the law firm of Salvi, Schostok & Pritchard P.C. has been a name you can trust in Lake County. While you've come to know us as the law firm that has successfully represented thousands of Illinois residents in their catastrophic personal injury and wrongful death cases, we are equally proud to be a good corporate citizen—an employer of hard working local residents and financial supporter of numerous Lake County community groups and organizations.

You don't have to go far to find us. While we have grown into a nationally recognized law firm with cases across the county, our headquarters is still located down the street in Waukegan, and all of our name partners live in Lake County. You can still pick up the phone and speak personally to Patrick Salvi, Michael Schostok or David Pritchard at 847-249-1227 to discuss the merits of a possible case.

We remain committed members of our community, and we thank you for 25-years of trust in us.
